

M.Sc. Bursary / Scholarship Opportunities

Applying for bursaries abroad is extremely difficult and there are relatively few grant-awarding bodies at M.Sc. level. This leaflet outlines some of the main grant-awarding bodies you can apply to.

Each organisation has its own application requirements and so it is important that you familiarise yourself with the facts (check web sites and read carefully the conditions). If you fulfil the requirements and apply, please contact us as we can offer you guidance and back-up.

If you do not fill the requirements, sending a standard letter to grant-awarding bodies will not secure you funding. In this instance our advice is to investigate other funding source (for instance: project-, employers- or private funding, government scholarships).

If you have a German consulate or embassy in your home country, contact them for further "scholarship information".

For further options please consult: <http://www.stipendiumplus.de>

International Organisations

International Federation of University Women (IFUW)

The IFUW grants its (female) student members a limited number of awards to undertake Masters' level studies. This is, however, for a maximum of 12 months and is not renewable. Applications should be made through one of the 78 national federations. If there is no such federation in your country, please send your application directly to the IFUW headquarters in Geneva. National federations may also be able to give advice on other funding opportunities.

Joint Japan / World Bank Graduate Scholarship Programme

This scholarship programme covers the cost of completing a master's degree or its equivalent. Grants are awarded for one year and may be extended to a second year if the student's academic performance is good. Application forms for the Regular Programme are available in English, French, Spanish, Japanese and Portuguese at the JJ/WBGSP Secretariat from September to January, at World Bank offices in many countries. These forms can also be downloaded. On-line application is also possible.

Ford Foundation (FF)

The International Fellowships Programme (IFP) of the FF provides support for applicants who take a university degree that will directly enhance their leadership qualities in an academic, administrative, political, practical or artistic discipline or field corresponding to one or more of the Foundation's areas of endeavour. Applicants must be resident nationals or residents of an eligible IFP country. All IFP Fellows must demonstrate excellence in their undergraduate studies and have experience in community service or development-related activities.

Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst (DAAD) - German Academic Exchange Service

The DAAD awards scholarships to students who are able to demonstrate exceptional personal and academic achievement. Applicants are expected to have already undertaken steps towards securing acceptance from a German host institution at the time of application.

Those interested in DAAD scholarships should contact either the German diplomatic representation or the local DAAD office in their home country. Please read carefully information regarding documents required, deadlines, date of pre-selection (as a rule about one year before taking up the studies) and institutions to which applications should be directed (applications cannot be addressed directly to DAAD head office). Candidates should also inquire whether or not direct exchange relations exist with Germany. Additional scholarships may be available where regional partnerships between particular countries and Germany may exist. In some countries scholarships are provided directly from Germany to individual higher education institutions. The nomination of scholarship holders is the responsibility of the respective foreign higher education institutions.
